

Climate change: a global issue

How good is the global solution?

This first evening in a series of climate justice events will focus on the international UN climate talks, in the lead up to Copenhagen in December 2009.

Friday 19 June, 6.30 – 8pm

Community Meeting Room, Ground Level, Brisbane Square Library (corner Adelaide and George Streets, City)

Please RSVP to Nicole Rankin by Tuesday 16 June

Speakers and discussion will explore problems with the climate negotiations process, and give a snapshot of how those problems can be solved.

Learn about how the climate negotiations impact on local people's struggles for justice and explore strategies for creating global climate justice through local solutions.

A facilitated discussion on how we can build the climate justice movement in Australia will conclude the evening.
